These resources have been selected because they offer high quality information for your coursework and nursing practice. If you have questions on any of the resources, or conducting research for your nursing classes, please contact the library. We are happy to help!

Library Databases—for finding articles:

- CINAHL Complete (from Ebscohost)
- MEDLINE (from Ebscohost)
- ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health

ProQuest Training Videos:

ProQuest has many training videos on various skills and issues in nursing and nursing assisting. To access the videos, click the link for ProQuest Central on the library homepage. Then select Browse from the search box. From the Health and Medicine heading, select Competency and Training Resources and click the link for the videos.
Print Journals the Library Subscribes to:

American Journal of Nursing
Journal of Psychosocial Nursing and Mental Health Services
MCN: American Journal of Maternal Child Nursing
MedSurg Nursing
Nursing
Nursing Made Incredibly Easy

National Institute of Health/National Library of Medicine Resources: These are resources that are freely available on the web. You can continue to use and access them once you have graduated and are no longer a student.

PubMed: Largest Biomedical database. Primarily citations and abstracts only. Send PMID/citation to librarian to get full-text of article. http://pubmed.gov

National center for complementary and integrative health—has herbal supplement information—clinical information behind those supplements and interactions with medications. https://nccih.nih.gov/

Healthy People 2020 structured search queries (premade searches in PubMed around Healthy People 2020 initiatives): www.phpartners.org/hp2020